

Kenin Sharku is an associate consultant at Insigniam, where he supports the firm's operations, financial systems, and client engagement efforts. His responsibilities include accounts receivable management, contract operations, and reporting across our client relationship management platforms. He collaborates regularly with teams across finance, IT, and business development, contributing to firm-wide process improvements and analytics.

During his undergraduate studies, Kenin worked as an economic research analyst at a leading regional economic development organization, where he led data modeling and economic impact analyses to support regional business expansion initiatives. He also served as a value fund manager for a $1M+ student investment portfolio, leading due diligence and valuation modeling for equities in the energy and utilities sectors. Additional professional experience includes roles at the Bank of Albania, where he supported monetary policy analysis and sustainable business growth strategy.

Kenin holds a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with a concentration in finance and a major in Business Economics from the University of Richmond. A Davis UWC Scholar and Bonner Scholar, Kenin's academic and professional pursuits reflect a strong commitment to global understanding, data-driven insight, and impactful leadership. Having lived internationally for several years, Kenin is fluent in English, Spanish, and Albanian, and conversational Italian.
