

Insigniam Partner Jen Zimmer Named to PharmaVOICE 100 Most Inspiring People

With a career spanning from the emergency room to the board room, transforming the practice of management and leadership and catalyzing breakthrough results is what Jen Zimmer does.

PHILADELPHIA (PRWEB) September 05, 2019 -- Insigniam, an international management consulting firm that specializes in breakthrough performance, transformation, innovation and corporate culture, announced today that one of its partners and consultants, Jen Zimmer, has been named to the PharmaVOICE 100 Most Inspiring People: an annual list of the 100 most innovative, influential and inspirational people in the life-sciences industry.

“I am thrilled and honored to be included as a 2019 PharmaVOICE 100 recipient,” said Jennifer Zimmer when asked about the award. “I would like to acknowledge the dedication and hard work of my teammates at Insigniam for the united efforts that allow us to make these contributions to the pharmaceutical industry. I also must acknowledge our clients, whose drive to improve quality of life through medicine and care make our work meaningful.”

The PharmaVOICE 100 represents leaders from across the global life sciences industry. A panel of PharmaVOICE editors chose the winners based on their ability to inspire, motivate and influence corporate leadership, research and development, technology, creativity and marketing and strategy.

Jen, a member of Insigniam’s team since 1998, started her career as a licensed critical care nurse. Her passion for elevating patient care evolved from being an administer of care, to creating a powerful impact as a consultant in the healthcare and medical science industries. A leader in the healthcare industry, Jen is a sought-after speaker at healthcare conferences, valued partner across biotech companies and hospital systems alike, and is a yearly speaker at the BioPharmaPM Conference, and a member of the Healthcare Businesswomen's Association.
